

ABSTRACT

A method, software program, and system for isolating risk in a financial transaction. More particularly, in one embodiment, a method, software program, and system for isolating risk among different bonds.